SALE UNDER THE VEFA SCHEME

VEFA (vente en l'état futur d'achèvement) is a contract for the sale of off-plan property that offers the buyer a high degree of security under the French Civil Code (Code Napoléon). This system allows the property to be paid for in several instalments, depending on the progress of the work, which reduces the financial risks. It also provides clear protection for the purchaser, as VEFA requires the builder to take out a Financial Completion Guarantee (GFA). This guarantee and protection enhance the buyer's security while minimising his or her risks. Purchasers do not have to pay the full amount before work starts; they only have to pay in instalments, in line with the logical progression of construction.

The developer must take out a Financial Completion Guarantee (GFA), which ensures that the project is completed. In Mauritius, the EDB (Economic Development Board) oversees VEFA projects and guarantees compliance with construction standards and environmental requirements. The procedure begins with a reservation contract, followed by a final contract specifying the features of the property. Once the work has been completed, a certificate of conformity is issued before delivery and transfer of ownership.

VEFA is particularly popular with foreign investors, as it offers maximum protection and security for the purchaser.

6 ADVANTAGES OF THE VEFA

01

Buyer protection: VEFA protects the buyer through the Financial Completion Guarantee (GFA), a bank guarantee ensuring that the work will be fully financed and completed.

02

Payment in instalments and secure management of funds: The property is paid for in instalments as work progresses, reducing the financial risk for the buyer. What's more, the funds are held in an account managed by the notary, guaranteeing that they are secure and well managed for the completion of the property project.

03

Compliance with standards: VEFA projects in Mauritius are supervised by the EDB, which guarantees compliance with construction standards and environmental requirements, thereby ensuring the quality of the property.

04

Construction quality guarantee: The developer is required to guarantee the quality of the work and its compliance with current standards. The 'Certificate of Practical Completion' issued by the EDB on completion of the work attests to this, authorising the transfer of ownership and the handover of the keys.

05

Respect for completion dates: The property must be delivered within the contractually agreed deadlines, in accordance with Article 1601-42 of the Mauritius Civil Code.

06

After-sale warranties: A Completion Guarantee covers the repair of defects reported for one year after acceptance of the work. The Biennial Warranty covers the maintenance and repair of equipment that can be dissociated from the construction for two years, while the Decennial Warranty covers damage affecting the solidity of the structure for 10 years.

Great Tax Benefits

Mauritius has signed several bilateral tax treaties aimed at eliminating double taxation on income and wealth with various European and other countries around the world.

You can deduct all expenses from your rental income, and the net result will be subject to the progressive tax scale, with a maximum marginal bracket of 20%.

1. No tax on dividends.
2. No tax on capital gains.
3. No tax on capital gains on real estate.
4. No wealth tax.
5. No council tax or property tax.
6. No social security contributions.
7. No control over the flow of capital, profits or dividends.
